I am a social entrepreneur, spiritual activist, organizational consultant, and third generation Californian. I grew up living around the world, which provided me with a broad perspective on international cultures, politics and social issues.

My consulting practice, Collaborative Solutions, focuses on accessing and engaging 'group wisdom' to build community, address challenges and expand results. My work is driven by deeply held spiritual values and a belief that it is possible to co-create a world that works for everyone. My emphasis is on creating quality relationships, inclusive organizational models, and feminine leadership styles.

I am founding the Positive Impact Center, a multi-layered community center that brings together the intergenerational and diverse socioeconomic resources in the Sierra Nevada foothills of northern California.
